20/10/2017 - Wonderwall Studios will present its wood panels for walls and other surfaces at the upcoming InteriHOTEL in Barcelona.

The new collection

What they are particularly fond and proud of is their design process. During their search for suitable woods, they always keep their eyes open for any new trends and styles. At Wonderwall Studios sketch, doodle, draws, throw stuff at the wall and they discuss their design ideas with the woodworkers; it's a true team effort. They are therefore always very proud to present new collection of panels. This one is no different.

The orient was their inspiration this time round, but they kept the design contemporary with some sharp lines and geometrical shapes. Still – and thanks to the organic layers – the collection has that great handmade quality typical of Wonderwall Studios. The deep purple tones and rich hues give the panels a certain mystical quality. They've given the new designs a smoother finish without sacrificing any of the character and depth.

Their collection has something for everyone. You can find their panelling adorning walls, ceilings, bars, reception desks and even floors in both commercial and residential spaces. They think it's great that loads of people have discovered the versatility of their panels to enrich their interiors. Their collections are as divers as the interiors they enliven.

They love working with reclaimed woods, so much so that if the wood is not reclaimed, they won't touch it. This sustainability principle forms not only the foundation of their business; it is its beating heart. They're proud of this but also see it as something that should come naturally to any people working in their line of business.
